Emotion Naming and Function - Practice worksheet

Name a possible emotion, its cue, its urge, and the need or concern it may signal.

Adults; supported use as appropriate | 15 minutes

Fictional example: Taylor notices frustration after a boundary is ignored.

Use an ordinary or fictional example, with a clinician when appropriate. Emotions carry information while action choices require context.

Practice task

Name a possible emotion, its cue, its urge, and the need or concern it may signal.

1. My chosen or fictional situation, and what I know about it:

2. My response to the practice task above:

3. What is the emotion pointing toward, and what needs checking?

4. An optional next step, support, adaptation, or reason to stop:

Scope and adaptation

These are selected DBT-informed educational exercises, not comprehensive DBT, phone coaching, or crisis care. Use individualized clinical assessment and existing care plans. No cold-water immersion, breath holding, intense exercise prescriptions, exposure assignments, or risk scoring are included. Behavior chains and opposite-action decisions need clinician guidance when risk or complexity is present.
