Fictional example: Rae observes one transition after work instead of monitoring every feeling.

Use an ordinary or fictional example, with a clinician when appropriate. Observation practice need not become constant self-monitoring.

Practice task

Choose one ordinary moment to notice during the week, define a short time limit, and decide when to stop tracking.

1. What I tried, or what happened in the fictional example:

2. What I noticed before, during, and after; what remains uncertain:

3. What helped, did not help, or was outside my control:

4. What is enough noticing for this experiment? My optional adjustment or support request:

Scope and adaptation

Keep experiments collaborative and low intensity. Chair-based or unfinished-business exploration belongs with appropriately trained clinicians after assessment, with a stop cue and an observing alternative. Do not interpret symbols, recover memories, force body focus, or use cathartic confrontation.
