Anger Boundary Workshop

Emotional Regulation | 30 minutes | 3-12 participants | Adults and teens 13+ with appropriate facilitation

Purpose

Practice naming anger while setting a specific nonthreatening boundary.

Materials: Paper or a printable handout, Pens or an accessible writing alternative, Optional blank cards or simple drawing materials

Invite and agree - 3 minutes

Name the purpose and the right to pass, observe, write, or use fiction. Agree that people share only their own experiences and do not promise absolute group confidentiality.

Introduce the example - 3 minutes

A friend repeatedly borrows things without asking. Ask what is known and what is still a guess.

Practice: Skills rehearsal - 17 minutes

Practice naming anger while setting a specific nonthreatening boundary. Model one short example. Invite a speaker, listener, or observer role; rehearse a low-stakes version and switch roles only by choice.

Reflect together - 4 minutes

What would a clear boundary sound like? Ask what fit, what did not fit, and what would make the exercise more accessible. Do not interpret another person's response.

Choose a next step - 3 minutes

Invite one optional action, support request, or question to carry forward. Passing is a valid closing response. Confirm how to seek appropriate support outside the activity.

Facilitator fit and boundaries

Use drawings or chosen words rather than requiring body awareness. Do not imply feelings cause harmful actions.

Offer observation, private writing, or a fictional example. Adapt instructions and group size to access needs. No client responses are collected by this page.
