When Joint Work Does Not Fit - Supported Practice Lab

You may write, draw, think quietly, use fiction, observe, or pass. Share only what you choose. This educational activity is not a test.

Fictional example: A fictional person worries that an honest answer will lead to punishment.

1. What is known in the fictional example, and what needs checking?

2. Identify questions about fear, coercion, or retaliation that require private clinical assessment before family exercises. My notes, drawing, or possible response:

3. What individual support is needed first?

4. One optional next step, support, or reason to revise the idea:

You can pause or stop. Ask your facilitator for an alternative if this does not fit. No identifying information belongs in shared copies. Independent clinical review pending.
