Values and External Demands - Learning Review Circle

You may write, draw, think quietly, use fiction, observe, or pass. Share only what you choose. This educational activity is not a test.

Fictional example: A member wants stability but dislikes the language used in a mandated plan.

1. What is known in the fictional example, and what needs checking?

2. Separate a member's chosen directions from referral requirements and others' expectations. My notes, drawing, or possible response:

3. Where can self-directed meaning enter?

4. One optional next step, support, or reason to revise the idea:

You can pause or stop. Ask your facilitator for an alternative if this does not fit. No identifying information belongs in shared copies. Independent clinical review pending.
