Fictional example: Jordan asks a service to explain its overdose-prevention resources.

Use an ordinary or fictional example, with a clinician when appropriate. A written plan supports discussion but is not emergency training.

Practice task

Identify who can provide overdose-prevention education, where approved supplies may be available, and how to seek emergency help; do not rehearse substance use.

1. What I tried, or what happened in the fictional example:

2. What I noticed before, during, and after; what remains uncertain:

3. What helped, did not help, or was outside my control:

4. Who can help turn this outline into an individualized safety plan? My optional adjustment or support request:

Scope and adaptation

Adapt to individualized assessment and the person's chosen recovery goals. Worksheets do not manage intoxication, overdose, or withdrawal. Abrupt cessation of alcohol or benzodiazepines can be dangerous: seek medical guidance rather than using a worksheet to stop or taper. Follow existing emergency and overdose-prevention plans; medication choices belong with qualified prescribers.
